

Making a medical living

Doctors and patients in the English market for medicine, 1720–1911

ANNE DIGBY

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of illustrations	page	xi
List of tables		xiii
Acknowledgements		xv
Note on abbreviations		xvii
Glossary		xviii
Introduction		1
Part I The professional structure of practice		9
1 Medical practitioners		11
2 The context of practice		39
3 Medical encounters		69
Part II The economic dimensions of practice		105
4 The creation of a surgical general practice		107
5 The GP and the goal of prosperity		135
6 Physicians		170
Part III Patients and doctors		197
7 Medicalisation and affluent patients		199
8 Office, altruism and poor patients		224
9 Expanding practice with women and child patients		254

Part IV Synthesis	297
Reflections	299
Select bibliography	317
Index of medical names	338
General index	341